

Native-American heritage to be spotlighted at the museums of the State of Delaware during September 2017

(DOVER, Del.—Aug. 23, 2017)—The Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs will be sponsoring 23 special events during the month of September 2017 at the museums of the State of Delaware. Eight of the programs will explore the First State's rich Native-American heritage and culture. A full schedule is included below. Except where noted, admission is free and open to the public.

Lenape fancy dancer. The Lenape Indian Tribe of Delaware will be celebrating its heritage with drums, songs and dancing in The Old State House on Sept. 2, 2017.

According to Nena Todd, site supervisor for the state's downtown Dover museums, "September is a time for Native-American people to gather in their homelands. Traditionally, the coming of cooler weather provided a signal for native peoples to transition from a summer of hunting and fishing to more secure winter lodgings." This tradition of seasonal gathering continues in today's Native-American communities with September serving as a time when families come together to honor their heritage with events such as the "First People of the First State: 12,000 Years, 300 Years and One Year" that will be held in The Old State House and on the Dover Green on Sept. 2, 2017.
